THE SACRAMENTO BEE

Cosumnes River College breaks ground on new architecture center

By Bill Lindelof

November 7, 2011

A groundbreaking for a new architecture and construction center today at Cosumnes River College will also highlight the donation of $1 million from a Sacramento home-building family.

The donation is the first step in constructing the state-of-the-art Winn Center for the Winn Center for Architecture & Construction, according to a press release from Rep. Doris Matsui, D-Sacramento. Matsui and Mike, Tom and Peter Winn are expected to be present at the ceremony. Others scheduled to appear are Sacramento Councilwoman Bonnie Pannel and Los Rios Community College officials.

The Winn brothers formerly operated Winncrest Homes, which merged with national home building giant Lennar Communities in 2000.

"This center will be a destination in the region," Matsui said.